Press Release-For Immediate Release

“Plano Synergy Joins QUWF as National Sponsor for Wildlife Habitat Restoration”

Buffalo, MO: “The battle to maintain our natural wildlife habitat is real, the effort has to be measured in results on the ground. Results in wildlife populations that are on in the woods, fields and streams must be measurable and it must truly make a difference at the local level” clarifies Craig Alderman of the Quail and Upland Wildlife Federation, Inc. (QUWF). “Finding good partners who understand the true challenge, want to see the results by putting their boots on it, are the leaders we seek to partner with over the long haul of wildlife conservation. Corporate investment in conservation must have results, be shown they are “investing” in the future of the industry by making a difference on the ground, locally, where it matters. Plano Synergy is that kind of company” Alderman states. “Their partnership, as a national QUWF sponsor, brings products to our local events directly linked to the passion and lifestyle of all outdoorsman, thereby making efforts of true wildlife habitat support a reality in dollars invested” Craig states.

“We are pleased to support these hands-on members and chapters of QUWF who “turn-the-dirt” for all upland wildlife and who guard the dollars raised nationally and locally to invest each penny for a positive result for wildlife at the local level” remarks Ralph Askren of Plano Synergy. “We look forward to seeing and supporting wildlife habitat projects by QUWF, and as a sportsman myself, totally support the outdoor lifestyle and passion of the great outdoors. Our products, through QUWF, will directly strengthen wildlife habitat research and restoration efforts, increasing the ability for more people, young and old to get outside” Askren observes. “QUWF’s concentrated efforts to find wildlife solutions for landowners, public and private, says something special about their drive” Ralph states.

“Plano Synergy brings an exclusive, new, product line to our sportsman base that provides cross bows to those who can no longer hold back a compound bow. The crossbow is a growing part of the hunting scene for men and woman and allows a continuation of the thrill of hunting, when physical abilities might have cut short the time afield. Wildlife Habitat work is a great endeavor. It really succeeds when the maximum amount of people get out and enjoy the great outdoors. Plano Synergy brings that to the table now for all sportsman on a national scale” states Nick Prough, QUWF Chief Wildlife Biologist.

As of January 2017, QUWF and its local chapters and members have impacted 5.7 million acres of wildlife habitat in 20 states with a value of $19.4 million dollars. That is “Turnin-the-Dirt™”.

Quail and Upland Wildlife Federation, Inc.™ is the only Disabled American Veteran Founded, tax exempt 501(c)(3) conservation organization in the U.S., serving its members and chapters nationwide. QUWF provides a strong local source of habitat focus on all upland wildlife with population recovery. Millions of dollars of habitat work have been completed by its members over the years on millions of acres of both private and public lands. That work continues with a renewed vitality. Our chapters from coast to coast, provide the grass roots, local habitat work that is making a difference each and every day.
